The first asteroid to be discovered, Ceres, was originally considered to be a new planet. This was followed by the discovery of other similar bodies, which, with the equipment of the time, appeared to be points of light, like stars, showing little or no planetary disc, though readily distinguishable from stars due to their apparent motions.

Saliva testing is a diagnostic technique that involves laboratory analysis of saliva to identify markers of endocrine, immunologic, inflammatory, infectious, and other types of conditions. Saliva is a useful biological fluid for assaying steroid hormones such as cortisol, genetic material like RNA, proteins such as enzymes and antibodies, and a variety of other substances, including natural ...

1. Introduction. The detection and identification of body fluids at a crime scene are very important aspects of forensic science. Determining whether or not there is a body fluid present and subsequently identifying it allows the sample to undergo further laboratory testing including DNA analysis which is a very crucial step in a wide range of investigations.

Table 1, Table 2 summarize physicochemical characteristics (critical micellar concentrations (CMC), aggregation numbers and partial specific volumes) of polyoxyethyleneglycol and other detergents often used in the study of membrane proteins. This information is important for the use of the detergents in solubilizing and purifying membrane proteins for structural studies.

Formic acid is the simplest carboxylic acid. Formate is an intermediate in normal metabolism. It takes part in the metabolism of one-carbon compounds and its carbon may appear in methyl groups undergoing transmethylation. It is eventually oxidized to carbon dioxide. Formate is typically produced as a byproduct in the production of acetate. It is responsible for both metabolic acidosis and ...
