In the mathematical field of differential geometry, a metric tensor is a type of function which takes as input a pair of tangent vectors v and w at a point of a surface (or higher dimensional differentiable manifold) and produces a real number scalar $g(v, w)$ in a way that generalizes many of the familiar properties of the dot product of vectors in Euclidean space.

In geometry and physics, spinors / $s \in \mathbb{R}^n$ / are elements of a vector space that can be associated with Euclidean space. Like geometric vectors and more general tensors, spinors transform linearly when the Euclidean space is subjected to a slight (infinitesimal) rotation. When a sequence of such small rotations is composed to form an overall final rotation, however, the resulting spinor ...
